FRANK OLIVER.

EXPLORING FOR OIL.

Nine waggons, carrying the outfit of the oil exploring party under instructions from the Dominion government, left for Athabasca Landing on Saturday, Monday and Tuesday. Mr. W. A. Fraser, the mining engineer, who has seen service in oil exploring expeditions in Russia, India, the United States and Canada, went north on Sunday to examine the district and will return to report and meet Dr. Selwyn upon his arrival here. Mr. Wade a practical engineer, who has seen twenty-five years of active service in the oil business accompanies the teams, and will superintend the practical undertakings of the party. In the course of conversation with a BULLETIN reporter, Mr. Wade said that he had good hopes of the expedition being a success. Questioned, why the party did not propose boring where the surface indications were most plentiful but proposed boring where there were no indications at all, he replied, that experience taught that where the surface indications were good, a greater distance had invariably to be penetrated. There is an apparent basin, he said, with visible cropping's upon one side and presumable cropping's on the other. The centre of this basin is where the party propose to bore. Two reasons are ascribed for this. First, it being the centre of the basin there would be more oil if any were found at all; secondly, it would require a less distance of boring to reach it.

About 1,200 feet is the depth they purpose going, which, with the machinery at their disposal, will take about two months.

Mr. Wade is not at all sanguine that if the crude oil is found that it will bear more than 20 per cent of saleable oil, though that makes little difference in regard to its real value as the remaining parts can be used for making paraffine, wax, chewing gum, candles, vaseline naphtha, etc., which pay nearly as well as the oil itself. His reason for this thought is, that in Russia and the further north oil has been found, it has not been found to possess so great an amount of oil as that found in the south; in Ohio the crude oil only yields 25 per cent of refined oil; in Ontario it yields 35 per cent and in Pennsylvania from 50 to 65 per cent according to the depth of the well;—the deeper being the better, for the oil having to pass through a greater layer of sandstone thus becomes more clarified.

Questioned in regard to paying quantities, he replied that at Petrolia a well yielding half a barrel of crude oil per day would be considered a paying well, because one 25 horse power engine worked by one man could now pump 40 wells, where in the earlier days of the business it required one engine and two men to pump one well which then yielded from 10 to 15 barrels per day. The yield in Ontario is worth $1.07 per barrel for the crude oil, it taking three barrels of crude oil to make one of refined.

The process of separating the oil is a simple one and consists of an admixture of Sulphuric acid, Ether and caustic Soda which are put into an agitator and mixed by a steam coil. The chemicals sink to the bottom, the oil rises to the surface, it is run off into a settling tub and is clarified by a distilling process, in which heat is put beneath the oil; it passes through long pipes into a condenser and come out in the following order. The first vapor is water, the second vapor is Benzine and the third vapor is dissolute oil or refined coal oil. What remains in the tank after this is tar, at the bottom of which is the dross a mixture of coke and sand. This latter is the only product not saleable.

Speaking in reference to the sinking of the well at Egg Lake Mr. Wade was of the opinion that not enough money had been at the back of the enterprise, and that more pipe would have been required. It has been found that before oil is reached the pipes fill with water and outer casings have to be put on to keep the water from filtering into the hole that is being bored, because the water getting in, drives the oil back when it is reached. At Bothwell, Ont. oil was struck yielding 42 per cent; but the whole district is now almost valueless owing to the water having been allowed to run into the oil by careless boring. For that reason a car load consisting of 1800 feet of extra piping will arrive on to-nights train, which will be used in avoiding this danger.

The Anglican Synod of Calgary met on the 19th ult. with about fifteen members in attendance. His Lordship the Bishop of Saskatchewan and Calgary in his opening address stated that about $150,000 of diocese funds passed through his hands annually. With reference to the matter of control of such funds, about which some controversy and newspaper correspondence has arisen, His Lordship said that his worthy predecessor had had sole control of all diocese funds, and that he, himself, had but continued in the policy as inaugurated, and so would continue. The executive committee in future shall consist of Bishop Pinkham, Rev. Dr. Cooper, J. P. J. Jephson ex-officio, as registrar, five clergy of the diocese and five lay delegates. Judge Macleod and Dr. Cooper were appointed delegates to the general perennial synod.

INNISFAIL.

The Oddfellows had an installation and supper lately. The following officers took chairs: O. P. Thomson, Past Grand; H. M. Douglas, Noble Grand; M. P. Foster, Vice Grand; F. W. Archer, Secretary; Rev. H. B. Brashier, Treasurer; J. Staples, Conductor; W. H. Kemp, Guardian; D. D. G. S. Claxton conducted the ceremonies.

Several justice of the peace cases have been up. The dry goods racket, which has been interesting the town lately, culminated in the arrest of Mr. Tranter, at the instance of Mr. Miller, for stealing $500. When the day for the trial came, however, Mr. Miller failed to appear and the case is dropped. Mr. Tranter seemed grieved that he had not an opportunity of vindicating himself and talks of an action of damages. Meantime Mr. Miller is selling the stock by auction with more or less success. Another case was that of Mr. A. A. Content, who was fined $5 and costs for losing his temper at billiards and damaging another gentleman's nasal organ.

The cricket match between Innisfail and Olds, and Devil's Pine Lake at R. P. Woods, was made an excuse for one, and the return match played at Mitchell-Innes ranch at Olds on Saturday, made another. Both matches ended disastrously for Innisfail.

The agricultural society is planning an extensive and what ought to be a successful fall fair for this year.

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor has been good enough to give a Free Press reporter some extracts from a letter which he yesterday received from the Tyrell geological exploring party. From this letter which was written at Cumberland House, Saskatchewan, on the 2nd of last month, it appears that the statement made by their discharged cook at Selkirk and here, regarding the upsetting of a canoe at the Calice rapids was grossly exaggerated. It was quite true that at a small rapid a slight accident happened which resulted in some articles and the pigeon-coop being swept away, and the homing pigeons, of which such great care had been taken, drowned, a fact which the travellers greatly deplore as the present may now be the last opportunity they may have of communicating with their friends till the fall. Head winds and boisterous weather had made the ascent of the Saskatchewan to Cumberland a very hard one, and owing to the ravages of la grippe on Reindeer Lake and its approaches, they were informed that they could not depend upon even the usual stock of provisions, so that they were to start in the morning (July 3) with the extra canoe they had taken as far as Cumberland, and with a couple more voyageurs and a cook to replace the munchausen they had sent back. Both travellers were in excellent health and spirits, and speak of the kindness shown them by both Chief Factors McFarlane and McDougall, and of their anxiety to reach as easily as possible the unknown world which lies before them when they leave the head of Reindeer Lake.

CALGARY FAIR AND RACES.

The Calgary fair and race meet closed today after a very successful week. Business has been suspended and the city been "en fête" during the whole week. Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons had been proclaimed holidays by the mayor, but the formality of a proclamation was quite unnecessary.

To and from the agricultural society's spacious grounds on the southeastern limit of the city there has been an increasing ebb and flow of vehicles since Monday morning. Though the attendance at any one day did not exceed 1,000, still for the past four days a crowd of that dimension has assembled morning, afternoon and evening, so that it is safe to say few of the citizens of Calgary, city and district, but have assisted at some part of the exhibition.

Financially the directors have gone to great expense in improving the hall, the grounds and the grand stand, and through the energy and courage of their secretary, Mr. G. Tempest, and the president, Mr. Douglas, they will make ends meet.

The chief exhibitors of cattle were Messrs. W. D. Shattuck, Cochran and Thompson, and in horses Messrs. Bryce, Wright, D. M. Randcliffe, Macpherson and Turner took the lead. Some account of the exhibit in the hall has already appeared in these columns, and it will be unnecessary to traverse the same ground again.

In the race meet, some good horses were brought together and some good time made, considering the track was somewhat soft.

The polo matches between teams from MacLeod, High River and Calgary, which were played every morning, were a source of great interest, and it is safe to say that the interest in this sport has been vastly increased by the matches played. MacLeod looked at first like the champions of the meet, defeating Calgary and High River in succession by scores of 5 to 4 and 4 to 3, respectively. But in the final match arranged with Calgary the latter's team, by some beautiful play came off victorious by a score of 6 to 2.

The best drawing cards of the whole exhibition, however, were the bucking and roping contests. In the former there were six competitors, and it is safe to say that no where on the continent could a better lot of rough riders have been got together. To those unaccustomed to ranch life it was a thrilling sight to see wild, unbroken horses lassoed, bridled, saddled and ridden by these fearless men. The efforts of the bronchos to rid themselves of their unwelcome burden were vigorous and determined, though utterly unavailing. Not a rider was bucked off, though one or two had to jump off, their mounts going over backward. To the uninitiated they seemed all equally good, and the impression it gave one was that the horses were utterly at the mercy of their riders. Mallette, a half-breed of Calgary, elicited considerable applause. Considerable money was staked on the result as Franklin, Cunningham and Roach, three of MacLeod's crack men, had come up to try conclusions with High River's "best." One enthusiastic bettor staked $300 on the north men and won, as Mike Herman and W. R. Stewart, of High River, were given first and second money.

The roping contest this afternoon brought out an enthusiastic crowd, many of whom had been present last year when John Weir, a colored rancher of High River, roped a wild steer in 57 seconds, thereby, it is said, breaking the best previous record. There were seven contestants to-day, all of whom were ready to divide the honors with "John." For an hour and more the audience was treated to clever exhibitions of the cowboy's art. But by a most peculiar chapter of accidents no one succeeded in making a very good record. Several competitors had to throw their steers over and over again before they could get them tied. Another on the eve of success was pulled off his horse, saddle and all, owing to a muscular steer and a defective cinch. John Weir, the favorite, made a beautiful throw and threw his steer and tied him in the marvellous time of 54 seconds, and a great shout went up. But two minutes later the steer broke loose and the $100 prize fell from this veteran's grasp, as the rules of the contest required the animal to be kept tied five minutes. After some plucky work, the winners were declared as follows:

1. Mike Herman; 2.8; H. B.
2. Cunningham; MacLeod; time 4.29;
3. Lusk, Calgary, 4.50.

In the competition for lady riders the judges awarded the first prize to Miss Field, the second to Mrs. Laycock.

A great deal of interest centered in the bicycle races. As competitors from Edmonton, Medicine Hat, Lethbridge and MacLeod had signified their intention of taking part, there was considerable speculation as to the results of the various events. J. H. Wrigley, advocate, of Lethbridge, however, completely outclassed his opponents, winning almost every event he entered seemingly with ease. Freeman, of MacLeod, and McNamara, of Edmonton, also proved themselves no mean wheelmen.

Among the horses there were some surprises. In the half mile running heats Goddard's "Marguerite," who was in the field, was an easy winner. In the three-year old stake Tranby Croft, of Mr. J. G. Jessup, of Red Deer, proved the dark horse, and among the two-year-olds Wentworth's Allsmoke did some remarkable work, winning the 1 1/2 mile dash in two minutes and eighteen seconds on a somewhat heavy track. Up till yesterday over $6,000 of pools were sold. In the hurdle race Critchley's Parkhill stumbled and broke her neck.

THE CANUCK.

On Tuesday and Wednesday evening the McKee Rankin Dramatic company occupied the boards of Robertson's Hall and played to large and appreciative audiences. Tuesday's performance presented "The Canuck," a French Canadian Drama full of humor and pathos, the plot of which has its environment the borderland of the lower province of Quebec, the scenes being partly in Vermont, partly in Canada. The play opens at the home of Cyrus Stebbins, a Yankee of Vermont and an intimate friend of Jean Baptiste Cadeaux a French Canadian farmer. Cadeaux's daughter Archange is visiting Mrs. Stebbins when the curtain goes up and after she retires the confidential conversation between Zeebedee Hawley, who for short is always termed Zep., and Mrs. Stebbins, it appears that the old choro man has his eyes around the house as well as the stable and intimates to Mrs. Stebbins that Archange is in love with Tom Stebbins, her son, a Wall St. broker, an affront which the old lady resents at once with the thought that as her son is married, Archange could have no love for him. Zep. is apparently right for Archange and Tom elope soon after Tom has induced his father to mortgage the farm so that he may speculate with the money in New York. Act II, is the interior of Jean Baptiste's farm house. The old man regrets the loss of his daughter. He is visited by Jim Hogan a New York sport and Hester Keene an adventuress, who both deem the farmers easily duped. Jim Hogan represents that he is a Wall St. Broker to whom Tom, Jean's son-in-law, has become indebted, and tries to sell the old farmer a lot of green goods, which he effectually does; but at the point of the pistol hands over again and is given into custody. Hester Keene is merely in league with Hogan to whom she is married, being also married to Tom Stebbins and others. The third act reveals the characters in their true light. Tom and Archange return to the farm and on Cadeaux finding that Tom was not the only husband of this adventuress Hester Keene, he condones the marriage of his daughter, pays the mortgage off Stebbins' farm and the play ends happily. The drama is a very humorous one, made more so by the clever acting of McKee Rankin, who, as Jean Baptiste Cadeaux makes a jovial, good natured French Canadian farmer, practical and matter of fact in the extreme, ever fond of his horses and farm animals, sturdy and industrious; but having no sympathy with railroads, banks or any scheme whereby money passes out of his hands to be controlled by others. His witlessness is so original and natural that the audience was kept convulsed throughout the evening. Mr. Geo Ulmer as Cyrus Stebbins makes a capital farmer, his part being taken with a naturalness that only comes from a long experience of stage life. Miss Beth Ross as Martha Stebbins also added much to the home life of the play making a very matronly old lady. These characters were well supported by the rest of the company which is much better than the average company visiting the town. The McKee Rankin Company is a genuine dramatic company and will not be found disappointing by the most critical audience. The Edmonton orchestra played the entire act music.

FORGET-ME-NOT.

Last night the same company played "Forget-me-not" an entirely different kind of drama to that produced the first night which gave Miss Jeffrey's Lewis the opportunity of displaying those acting powers of which she is so wonderfully capable. While in the "Canuck" she takes a very minor part, in "Forget-me-not" she takes the title role which she plays admirably. The drama is somewhat tragic in its bearings. The Verneys are a quiet, genteel and retiring family of Rome into whose family has been married the son of "Stephanie de Montrivart," a lady of rank; but fond of the gaming table and fast living, without principle or a sense of honor. After losing all that she ever possessed, her character included, she seeks the home of the Verneys in order that she may recuperate her pocket and be restored into society. The Verneys do all in their power to rid themselves of so notorious a character; but without avail. She claims the guardianship of May Verney who was born to her son in France and under French laws, a marriage to which she had protested because her son was under the age of 25 at the time of his marriage and her consent had not been given to it. She thus declares either peace or war. Peace if they recognize her as a relative, being the mother of May's father, war if they do not accept her, in which case she would expose the scandal of May's birth. Miss Lewis displays the part of the bold, fearless woman who can take advantage of those more sensitive than herself in a natural and chic manner, winning herself into the good graces of the audience, not by the character she displays; but by the clever way she impersonates. It is not until an escaped Corsican who had been paid to commit murder for her, makes his appearance on the scene and seeks to kill her that she flees from the Verneys, prior to which she signs her sanction to the marriage of her son. Mr. Coulter Briskley took the part of Sir Horace in a manner that well became the character, while Geo. Ulmer was quite as at home as Prince Maltoet as he was in taking the part of the yankee farmer. Jas. Miller took the part of Barratto which required very little acting while Ben Wilson, took Jas. Miller's place on the programme. The natural manner in which Benny handed in the cards and served at the table always called for a suppressed laugh and applause. The part was capitally taken and was so natural that we shall soon have to class him with professionals. Miss Beth Ross as Mrs. Foley was again in keeping with the old lady's part while Miss O'Neill had much more to do than on the previous night, and Alice Verney played her part with force and feeling. To-night, by special request, the company will play the "Danter," a story of the mountaineers in Colorado, when McKee Rankin will take part of Sandy McGee.
